The recessed entry and sizeable porch lend an air of distinction to the façade of this 1695 sq. ft. home and make it readily adaptable to one of the newest design trends, the outdoor courtyard.

Upon entering the foyer, guests view 2 archways that convey an air of elegance, while the room to the left brings form and function to the space. Adjacent to the hall bath, it can become either a guest bedroom or a private study/den. Through one of the arches is the practical part of the home- garage entry, drop zone and laundry. The other leads to the true heart of the home- a great room, sun room and kitchen. The open spaces of great room, dining area and sun room are ideal for individual activities; combined they perfectly accommodate large family gatherings. Note how the position of the sunroom and great room create another secluded outdoor courtyard while a very useful pocket office and large pantry, located just off the kitchen, provide ultimate convenience.

The master bedroom, positioned, at the rear of the home for privacy, features an “en suite” bath plus a huge walk in closet with its own access to the laundry room. Truly a value priced home that perfectly combines the essential architectural elements of form and function.
